

Commercial

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY HENRY M. WHITNEY.

THE PACIFIC Commercial Advertiser.

The following beautiful lines have been sent in manuscript to us for insertion. They breathe the spirit of true poetry, though readers may differ as to the sentiments expressed in them.

"There is a time, we know not when,
A point, we know not where,
That makes the destiny of men
To glory or despair.

There is a line by us unseen,
That crosses every path,
The hidden boundary between God's patience and his wrath.

To pass that limit is to die,
To do as if by stealth;
It does not quench the burning eye
Or pale the glow of health.

The conscience may be still at ease,
The spirit light and gay;
That which is pleasing still may please
And care be thrust away.

But on the forehead God hath set Indelibly a mark
Causen by man, for man as yet
Is blind and in the dark.

And yet the doom'd man's path below
Like Eden, may have bloom'd;
He did not, does not, may not know
Or feel that he is doom'd.

He knows, he feels that all is well,
And every fear is calm'd;
He lives, he dies, he wakes in hell
Not only doom'd but dam'd.

Oh! where is this mysterious bourne,
By which our path is cross'd;
Beyond which God himself hath sworn
That he who goes is lost?"

VARIETY.

Keep good company or none.

A lie, though it be killed and dead, can sting sometimes—like a dead wasp.

Why is a crack in the wall like Izaak Walton the angler? Because it's a fissure.

The sieve through which the man strained every nerve is for sale at less than first cost.

Gaming, like a quicksand, may swallow a man up in a moment.

Law is like prussic acid—a dangerous remedy,
and the smallest dose is generally sufficient.

"Though lost to sight, to memory dear," as the maid said to her lover, when his face was buried in board and whiskers.

Learning hath gained most by those books by which printers have lost.

Three things to be despised—a brawler in a workshop, a fool in fine clothes, and a slanderer.

The following laconic epitaph, carved on a Spanish tomestone, should be remembered.

"I was well-wanted to be better—took physic, and here I am."

The late Samuel Roger's recipe for long life was,
"Temperance, the bath, the flesh brush, and don't fret."

It was a saying of Napoleon, that it is necessary to allow the night to pass over the injuries of the evening.

A CHARITABLE MAN.—Rev. Mr. Stiggins said:
"I am a charitable man, and I think every one entitled to his opinion—and never cherish malice against any body, not even against Mr. Mulberry, who has indirectly called me a sinner; but still, if the Lord has a thunderbolt to spare, I think it would be well bestowed on dear brother Mulberry's head."

Quaint old Fuller says, "Let him who expects one class of society to prosper in the highest degree, while the other is in distress, try whether one side of his face can smile while the other is pinched."

INTEREST.—No blister draws sharper than interest.
Of all industries none is comparable to that of interest. It works day and night, in fair and foul weather.
It has no sound in its footsteps, but travels fast. It gnaws at a man's substance with invisible teeth. It binds industry with its firm grasp, as a fly is bound upon a spider's web. Debt rolls a man over and over, binding a man hand and foot, and letting him hang upon the fatal mesh, until the long-legged interest, that is but one thing raised on a firm like it, and that is the Canada thistle, which springs new plants every time you break its root, whose blossoms are prolific, and every flower father of a million seeds. Every leaf is an awl, every branch a spear, and every single plant is like a platoon of bayonets, and a field full of them is like an armed host. The whole plant is a torment and a vegetable curse. And yet a farmer had better make his bed of Canada thistles than attempt to lie at ease upon interest.

BOILING SHINGLES IN LIME AND SALT.—Mr. Editor:
If the following fact is of any value, it is at your service.

There is a building in this place, covered with shingles that were taken from another roof, (where they had been in use some years), were boiled in lime and salt about five minutes, and then relaid. This was twenty-seven years ago, and these shingles look now, as if they would last some years longer.

Other roofs that were treated in the same way since, appear well; they are clean and smooth, the moss does not form on them, and the water runs off readily.

There seems to be no reason why white wash, with the addition of salt, would not be beneficial when applied to a dry roof, in proportion to the lime and salt absorbed by the shingles.

Have you not observed that where the rain washes the lime from the chimney upon the roof, that the shingles remain sound longer than on the other part?

Yours truly, S. E. P.

Springfield, Vt., 1856.

YOU FORGOT ME.—A good joke is told at the expense of one of our church-going citizens, who is the father of an interesting family of children, and among them a bright eyed boy numbering four or five summers, the pet of the household, and unanimously voted the drollest little mischief alive.

On Saturday night he had been bribed to keep peace and retire to bed an hour earlier than usual, with the promise that on the morrow he might go with the family to church. On Sunday morning it was found inconvenient to put the youngster through the course of washing and dressing necessary for his proper appearance at the sanctuary, and the family slipped off without him. They had not, however, when in walked the youngster with nothing on but a night wrapper and a cloth cap.

"You forgot me," said he in a tone loud enough to be heard all over the church.

The feelings of the parents can be more easily imagined than described.—Lafayette (Ind.) Journal.
